WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—The United States will flatly reject any proposal for American participation in a far eastern security pact that calls for any advance promise of military assistance on the part of this country.

This was learned in authoritative quarters here today as officials viewed with growing dissatisfaction the reported suggestion of Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff that the United States be invited to participate in a far eastern security pact.

Apart from this country's traditional stand against any foreign military commitments, American participation in a far eastern security pact looked to officials too much like getting into Europe's troubles through the back-door of the Orient.

No Security Pacts.
There were definite indications this government wanted nothing whatever to do with security pacts as they are known in Europe, providing for an advance promise of military assistance if any of the other parties to the agreement are attacked.

Little difference was seen between American participation in a security pact in the far east and a promise

Nature Sends Mud Storm To District Near Kane

(International News Service)
KANE, Pa., Mar. 30.—Nature played a "dirty trick" on Northwest Pennsylvania today. A dust storm, accompanied by rain, provided a mud pack.

During the height of the wind and dust storm garage attendants covered a pane of glass with a thin coating of oil. Later they removed four inches of dust from the glass.

A strong wind swept over the northwestern area leaving destruction and damage in its wake. Roofs were lifted from several buildings, power lines were pulled from their moorings, tree branches were broken and trees, themselves, uprooted in many places. Billboards were thrown to the ground.

While property damages were heavy, no casualties were reported.

Three Hundred Engineers Here

District Gathering At The
Castleton Friday Night
Fine Success

G. F. NORDENHOLT
TELLS OF PROBLEMS

Modern transportation, streamlined trains built of aluminum and stainless steel, triple expansion locomotives and other recent developments in the transportation field were the subject of discussion Friday night when an Engineers' Congress was held in the Castleton Hotel.

The meeting was sponsored by the Mahoning-Shenango Valley Engineers Society, with the Youngstown Section, American Society Mechanical Engineers and the Sharon Section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, joining. In addition, there were engineers from Pittsburgh, East Liverpool, Akron, Ellwood City and other cities present.

Highly Successful
The congress was attended with unusual success. In all there were over three hundred present, necessitating the taking over of the auxiliary dining room in addition to the ballroom for the service of the dinner. Following the dinner, the tables were removed from the ballroom and the guests all seated there for the program.

Carl Leis, president of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley Engineers Society, presided and opened the program with a short address of welcome. He expressed his pleasure at the presence of the large crowd and congratulated the committees that had made the success possible. He then called upon F. J. Vogel, of Sharon, and J. A. Mawhinney, of Youngstown, who presented the greetings of the visiting engineering chapters.

The entertainment of the evening consisted of a group of interpretative dances presented by some of the girls of the Nell Brady School. (Continued On Page Two)

Freight Rates Decision Given By Commission

Ten Percent Increase Is Denied But Some Changes Are Granted

COMMISSION IS SPLIT ON ISSUE 5-4

Admit In Decision That Railroads Are Confronted With Grave Emergency

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today denied the application of the railroads for authority to make proposed increases in freight rates and charges amounting to about ten per cent of present rates.

However, the commission authorized the road to add certain emergency charges to existing rates on a large part of their freight traffic for a period ending June 30, 1935. In general, these emergency charges are similar, except in amounts, to those authorized in the rate case of 1931 and which were in force from January 4, 1932, to September 30, 1933.

The decision was reached by a vote of 5 to 4. No emergency charges were authorized for grain, grain products, rice, hay, straw, cotton, cottonseed, citrus fruits, certain fresh fruits, white potatoes, fresh vegetables, dried beans and peas, cattle, beef, hogs, milk, lumber and fertilizers.

Some Changes Authorized
On coal and coke, charges ranging from 3 to 15 cents per net ton were authorized and on iron ore, 10 cents per net ton. A single increase (Continued On Page Two)

Western Pennsylvania And Eastern Ohio Cities To Form Association

HAVE PRELIMINARY
MEETING ON FRIDAY

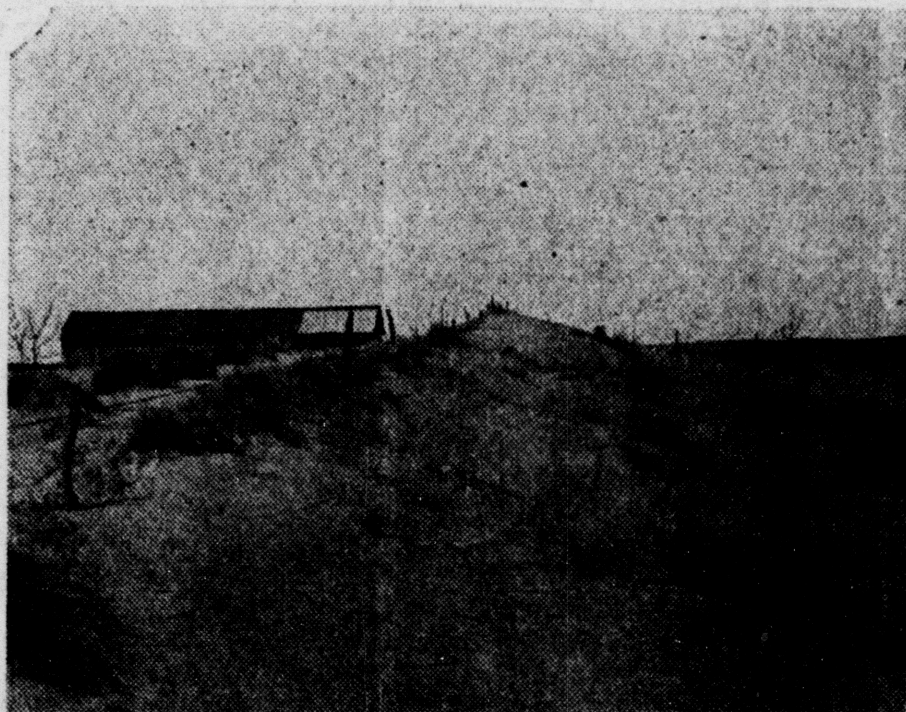

An association for the coordination of highway improvements in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio was projected at a meeting of representatives from the two areas held Friday afternoon in the rooms of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce.

Representatives were present from New Castle, Beaver Falls and Sharon, in Pennsylvania, and Youngstown, Warren, Niles, Girard, East Liverpool and Steubenville, in Ohio. The meeting was presided over by J. A. White, president of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, who introduced H. R. Packard, secretary of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, as chairman.

At the close of the meeting it was decided to form an association which will work for the coordination of the road programs of the two states, so that many of the important highways linking the two states can be improved. Each city represented will name three delegates to the next meeting when it is proposed to form a permanent organization.

New Castle was represented at yesterday's meeting by L. G. Gunkler, president, and Alfred W. Chilton, secretary of the New Castle chamber of Commerce.

SOME DUST STORM SCENES IN OKLAHOMA

Over 6500 See Two Darius' Presentations

At the final performance of Darius, the drama presented under the auspices of the service division of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, it was necessary to shut the doors and turn people away, so great was the throng which came for the final performance of the play.

There were 2,400 people in attendance, establishing a record for theatrical productions in this city, 6,500 having attended the two nights. Because of the fact that many were unable to attend, it is possible that the drama will be presented again later in the spring.

The cast gave an even better performance than they had on the preceding evening, every character seemingly putting himself into his role as if he were the person he portrayed.

Made Deep Impression.
The drama was so different from any theatrical production ever produced here before that it made a deep impression on the two big audiences, and the officers of the service division of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, with which it is affiliated, have received numerous congratulations on providing an entertainment of such exceptional merit.

It was regretted that all persons who came to the Cathedral last evening could not be admitted, but it is (Continued On Page Two)

Dust Storms Claim Three

Western Kansas Again
Shrouded In Severe
Dust Clouds

(International News Service)
DODGE CITY, Kan., Mar. 30.—Western Kansas today was shrouded in another severe dust storm which reduced visibility to practically zero.

Three names were added to the list of deaths due to the devastating dust storms. Edward B. Heltemes, Pueblo insurance man, died in his home Friday of dust pneumonia contracted on a business trip to Kansas, during which he drove through one of the black storms.

Harry Steele, postmaster at Holly, Colo., died of asthma, said to have been aggravated by the dust. Mrs. Margaret Gray, 68, of Anderson, Ind., was killed when the car in which she was riding left the highway near Rock Springs, Wyo., and overturned. Investigating authorities said a sand storm had obscured the view of her son, Ben H. Gray, of Caldwell, who was driving. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Succop Granted Pardon By Earle

Former Pittsburgh Director Of Purchases Under
Mayor Kline, Pardoned

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 30.—Bert L. Succop, director of purchases under former mayor Charles Kline of Pittsburgh, today held the first pardon issued by Gov. George H. Earle since he took office.

Succop, convicted of malfeasance in connection with the scandal involving the Kline administration, was one of four persons who obtained pardons as a result of last February's hearings of the pardon board. In addition, nine commutations of sentences were approved.

The pardon board refused 24 applications and continued nine others, explaining: "the policy of the board in not recommending commutation of sentences or pardons for habitual criminals was carried out."

WILL ROGERS
SAYS:

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—Thursday night, Mrs. Rogers, Mary and I saw a fine comedy show in New York called "Three Men on a Horse." The idea is that a man that is not betting can do out the winners.

Well, now get this for a coincidence. I fly down here Friday morning and I meet the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Ireland, a lovely fine little Irish gentleman. Well, you would naturally ask an Irishman about the Grand National race at Aintree, for all the good horses in it are Irish. Well, this little I!

Mayor gave then Friday morning, the following winners: Reynoldstown, Blus Prince, Thornman the second.

By golly, if he didn't pick 'em one, two, three. So if the Lord Mayor of Ireland should be coming your way, no matter if he tells you "the Republicans have a chance," listen to him.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

Averting Of Tieup Is Welcome To Miners Of Pennsylvania

(BULLETIN)

International News Service
WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—Truce between miners and operators in practically every bituminous coal field of the country was announced today by Recovery Administrator Donald Richberg, following a conference between operators, miners and a special committee of the recovery board.

Under the agreement the operators and miners will continue relations until June 16, as provided by the bituminous coal code, which would have expired Sunday midnight.

Averts Shutdown

Conclusion of the truce averted a shutdown in the Appalachian fields Monday morning which would have thrown 350,000 men out of work indefinitely, with heavy resultant loss to business of all kinds in the bituminous regions.

The truce under which the miners are now working expires tomorrow night and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, had announced that they would not appear for work Monday unless a new agreement was signed.

The agreement follows:
"The existing Appalachian agreement and supplementary Appalachian region district agreements of April 1, 1934, shall continue in full force and effect in all their provisions (Continued On Page Two)

President Continues On His Fishing Trip

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 30.—While President Roosevelt still was devoting his main attention to game fishing today, he had close at hand his advisers on federal relief and federal housing.

Nothing in the bulletins from the yacht Neorah, on which the party is cruising, indicated that President Roosevelt was conducting official business. The yacht of James Moffett, federal housing administrator, was anchored far down in the Florida keys, and as Harry L. Hopkins, FERA head, was at Miami, it was evident the president had them ready to hand.

The bulletin, received last night, indicated that Neorah's distinguished fisherman was in the neighborhood of Man-O-War bay, along the coast of the island Great Inagua near the Cuban shore.

The routine was broken by courtesy calls from officials of the tropical towns touched by the yacht, with its U. S. navy escort, the destroyer Farragut.

The bulletin stated:

Caps and gowns and pretty dresses, brand new shoes, and fancy hose, gosh it seems they've only started, how the school semester goes. Summer days and empty class rooms, students, teachers gone away, won't be long till graduation weather's fifty-five today.

PA NEW OBSERVES

In the past few weeks a number of requests has come to me from citizens who are interested in bird life and asking if I could name a good food for cardinals. Cardinals will eat most any kind of food in the seed line. But the most successful and liked food to the cardinal is the raw peanut in the shell. Charles M. Black of East Brook, a bird lover, finds success in feeding the cardinals peanuts. Due to the kindness of Mrs. J. H. Greiner, 1213 Albert street, Gaston park has been donated some grey squirrels. These squirrels were obtained by Mrs. Greiner from a Philadelphia park.

PRESIDENT WANTS NRA EXTENDED

New Legislation Before Congress

Senator Harrison Unexpectedly Introduces Bill For Two-Year Extension

SEE PROGRAM TO HEAD OFF STRIKES

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—Congress today was aware that President Roosevelt not only wanted the NRA extended for two years, but that he wanted quick action on legislation necessary to provide for this action.

The administration made this plain by parliamentary tactics directed by Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate finance committee.

While his committee was engaged in debating the pros and cons of the entire blue eagle experiment, Harrison unexpectedly introduced in the Senate the administration's own bill for extension of the NRA.

To Head Off Strikes Harrison explained his extraordinary action by stating it was intended to head off the threat of strikes and general labor troubles arising from widespread uncertainty over the future of the blue eagle.

The bill today was before the surprised Senate finance committee for consideration.

Despite the administration's move to hasten action, stormy weather before finally acted on. However, administration leaders felt Harrison's action would at least serve to overcome the growing impression that Congress intended to let the NRA lapse at the expiration of the original act on June 16.

FREIGHT RATES DECISION GIVEN BY COMMISSION

is specified for so-called lake cargo coal and iron ore, even though there may be two rail hauls separated by the water movement.

The charge on petroleum products is one cent per 100 pounds on sand, gravel and certain kinds of stone, the maximum charge is charge is one cent per 100 pounds, and the charge is permitted where present line-haul rates on these commodities are $1 per ton or less.

An emergency charge of 10 per cent was authorized in connection with switching and certain other accessory charges, subject to exceptions. The railroads' proposal to authorize a charge for insurance of order bills of lading was disapproved.

Grave Emergency The majority of the participating members—Maurer, McManamy, Lee, Mahaffie and Splawn—took the view that the railroads were confronted by a grave emergency, and rising operating costs, due to increases in wages and prices of materials, which warranted such a measure of rate relief as may be accorded under present conditions during the next 15 months.

The majority report was silent as to the amount of additional revenue which the railroads probably will derive from the charges authorized, but in the dissenting expression of Commissioner Miller, it was stated that the report "would appear to afford about one-half of the additional revenue estimated by the carriers in their proposal," namely, about $85,000,000 annually.

The majority report referred to various plans now under consideration which give promise of stabilizing the general transportation situation, and improving the financial condition of the railroads, but pointed out that aid from these sources is not likely to be afforded for some time.

"To meet the immediate and pressing need of the railroads for additional revenues necessary to prevent further impairment of their ability to furnish adequate transportation, the emergency charges are authorized," the majority report said.

The dissenting members—Chairman Pate and Commissioners Aitchinson, Porter and Miller—said they believed that railroad freight rates are now at the ceiling of reasonableness and tend to make them clearly unreasonable and tend to defeat their own purpose by accelerating the loss of traffic to competing forms of transportation.

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Mar. 30.—A new all time peak for automobile and truck production was established by motor firms this week when 103,286 units were produced, surpassing the previous record of 102,000 made on July 12, 1930, according to Gram's reports.

"Future outlook for automobile sales at this time is far more encouraging than many anticipated a few months ago," the report revealed. "High volume production levels probably will be sustained longer in 1935 than during any year since the depression."

Last week production was 100,065 units. A year ago the output was down to 79,913.

to guarantee aid to every country in Europe, big or little, that became involved in a war with its neighbors. The view prevailed that if it was breaks out in Europe on a large scale it will not be long before the far eastern nations are involved. If the United States was bound by any mutual assistance pact in the Orient, it was pointed out, the powers likely to benefit from American participation undoubtedly would find some means of placing this country in the position of being forced to enter the conflict in order to live up to its obligations.

Officials felt it will be difficult enough for the United States to remain out of the next war without the added complication of any military commitments in the far east or anywhere else.

As to the question of American participation in a multilateral far eastern non-aggression pact that called for to invade one another's territory, officials were reserved in their comment.

It was recalled the state department had rejected overtures from both Japan and Soviet Russia for a bilateral non-aggression pact, and it was added that no consideration had ever been given to the question of a regional non-aggression pact.

The roads leading to Williamsburg, black with traffic—glittering automobiles—less pretentious ones—buses—striding forth on free feet to sing the praises of this modest M. D. in the four corners of the earth.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I...I...I
A little girl told me that when you ask your father and mother for something and they say in a certain tone of voice, "Well, we'll see," that usually means you're not going to get it.

Nothing makes you feel so rich as a pocketful of small change—even if that's all you have.

I'm sorry that I never had a nickname. But my stick-out ears always attracted quite a bit of attention.

I suppose one does grow up eventually. . . . Old enough so that you can see the telegraph messenger come up the front walk and not wonder if it's bad news.

The fairest time of day is just after sunset, when earth is so lovely with its dark greens and blues and purples and all is misty-strange and you feel as if you could write a poem. Sunrises have also been praised, and quite properly, I suppose. But my experience of sunrises was mostly during the war, after nights that were dark and unfriendly, and those sunrises had more relief than charm about them.

When I was ten I longed for the day when I might chew tobacco and spit it far and with precision. . . . But when I tried it, I changed my mind. . . . My brother had more will power.

I'm the husband in the comic strips . . . who can't smoke without getting ashes all over the house.

Some day I intend to buy one of those suits with two pairs of pants. . . . I've been "intending" for 20 years.

I used to think that one learned from experience, and the more experience the better. . . . I still think the more experience the better, but I'm beginning to doubt our ability to learn from it.

DON'T LET PERSONAL
PREJUDICES INTERFERE WITH WORTHY CAUSES

Many generous people in the world are willing and even glad to help any cause that needs assistance.

Certain others who really could and should work have peculiar quirks to their makeups.

They favor certain friends and projects; when these matters arise, they are always in the van.

But they stand just as strongly against other people, regardless of the justice of the cause, and they oppose all measures that do not suit their tastes.

Why are they so prejudiced in any one direction?

These people have been known to remark: "I'd be glad to help in this undertaking, but it would help a person I do not like. Therefore, why should I benefit that person?" Truly, a mean and narrow attitude.

If you are this sort of person, shake yourself before you become warped permanently.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE NEEDED LITTLE
A little more of giving and little less of taking;

A little more of sensing what our neighbors have to bear;

A little more of pity for the ones to sorrow wailing

And we'd have more of laughter and less of bleak despair.

A little more of friendship and a little less of sneering;

A little more of trusting and a little less of doubting;

A little more of cheering and a little less of jeering

And we'd have more contentment and much less to fret about.

A little more of sharing and a little less of grasping;

A little more of loving and a little less of hate;

A little less of bickering and voices harshly rasping

And we should all be stronger when the need for strength is great.

A little more of charity and less of selfish dealing;

A little more of willingness another's need to see;

A little more of wisdom, both of knowing and of feeling

And life would be the joyous thing it really ought to be.

Bible Thought For Today

Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God; but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.—John 3:11.

Correctly Speaking—
The object of a verb or of a preposition should be in the objective case.

Word of Wisdom
It is a proof of great talents to recall the mind from the senses, and to separate thought from habit.—Cicero.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:22. Sun rises tomorrow 5:46.

Despite the fact that April Fool's Day comes on its first day, the birthstone for the month of April is the sapphire, which is credited with endowing one with wisdom. But then of course, everyone doesn't make a fool of himself on April 1.

Demagogues are those who pile up abominations which it seems impossible anyone could have committed.

A regular Zeppelin service is soon to be inaugurated between Holland and the Dutch East Indies, and here we can't take our Zeppelins out of the hangar without them going to pieces. Looks like there might be something rotten in Denmark or Amsterdam.

The Girl Next Door says that flirting is a sign of unsettled whether.

The measure of a man is the size of the offense that gives him a life-long grudge.

Down in Texas, a man fasted for sixty-two days in order to beat the record of a man who had fasted for sixty days in a book. The shock of food was so great when he tried to eat that he died. And even had he lived, the record would have been a rather empty one, we imagine.

In the good old days, a divorce meant a fight to see who'd get the children, but now it's to see who'll get the car or the pet Pekinese.

Sewing on buttons will never be popular with the women folks until it can be done with some kind of automatic machinery.

Few successful men are batchelors. A rabbit doesn't run unless there is something behind it.

Brent's groundhog was only about seven weeks late in coming out to view his shadow. This just goes to prove that the groundhog cannot be taken as a very reliable fore-caster.

Charlie Schwab is against taking the profits out of war. Maybe if the boys, who do the fighting for nothing more than the thrill, would do the same, there wouldn't be any wars to make any profits out of.

A New York man, aged 84 years, has recently completed the making of an entire gross of solid silver tea spoons, which can be packed in an ordinary cherry shell. They can be seen only through a magnifying glass, and a special tube is required to place them in the store. They would probably be of considerable use in feeding an amoeba.

So long as the voice of the people cries "Gimme!" the best popular leader will be the best gimmler.

You can tell the healthy ones. They regard "nerves" as a mixture of self-pity and imagination.

If you are tempted to do violence, watch your step. All cruelty in man's history was promoted by ignorance.

It isn't enough to think you are right. All tragic blunders are made by men who think they are being smart.

Being a husband we feel it our duty at this season of the year to warn our fellow sufferers against making disparaging remarks about house-cleaning. We have never known a man who could see any sense in house-cleaning. We never knew a man who wouldn't rather be in jail while it is on. But men are dumb, mighty dumb, when it comes to keeping house. The average man doesn't know dirt, unless he's mired in it, or trips over it. So why expect him to be joyful while the house is being turned inside out. If ever a woman is justified in socking her husband with a rolling pin, it's when he begins to yap about house-cleaning.

RED PUNISH THEM
A drunk was swaying back and forth on the sidewalk when the cop stepped up and asked him what he was doing and where he lived.

"Right there," he said, pointing to a house, "but I rang the bell and nobody answered."

"How long ago was that?" asked the cop.

"Oh, a couple of hours."

"Well, why don't you try again?"

"Aw, to h— with 'em—let 'em wait."

The trouble with most companies is too many by laws, and with most marriages, too many in-laws.

A wife may be read like a book, but she can't be shut up like one.

Germany is now complaining that the atmosphere is being politically poisoned against them. They also thought that "God was with them" in the World War, and it seemed to have turned out the other way. Next they will be claiming that they were attacked in the World War and fought only to defend themselves.

Housewife, to cook—Nora, I don't like to mention it, but it seems to me that the food in the kitchen didn't appear very rapidly.

Cook—Well, mum, I admit I have a hearty appetite, but no one has ever accused me of being gorgeous.

MATTER OF HONOR
A recent convert in a colored church was very anxious to prove his piety and he went to the preacher and told him so. The preacher then asked: "What do you want to do?"

The convert replied: "Ah is ready to do anything De Lord asks of me so long as it's honorable."

NATURAL MISTAKE
Betty—What heavenly jazz! Let's dance!

Bill—That wasn't jazz. The waiter just dropped our dinner.

THE CAD AT EVE
Husband—If a man steals, no matter what, he will live to regret it.

Wife (copy)—You used to steal kisses from me before we were married.

Husband—Well, you heard what I said.

Yet the naked savage is as rich as the millionaire. He has everything he wants.

Better not condemn the other man's ideas unless you have done something to prove yourself smarter than he is.

KNEW FROM EXPERIENCE
A general and a colonel were walking down the street. They met many privates, and each time the colonel would salute he would mutter, "The same to you."

The general's curiosity soon got the better of him, and he asked: "Why do you always say that?"

The colonel answered: "I was a private and I know what they are thinking."

"I heard you barely escaped from that fire last night."

"That is not strictly true. I had my pajamas on."

The touchy man almost always dictates to others how they ought to behave towards him.

Correct this sentence: "I hate every word he says," cried the typical American, "but I'll fight to defend his right to say it."

Speaking of speed records Pennsylvanians can "point with pride" to the general assembly. Out of 2,280 bills introduced, it has actually passed nine that have become laws. This is an enviable record and one that will certainly commend itself to the taxpayers who are footing the bills. If there are any taxpayers left who can raise the price of a three cent stamp we'd suggest that they write their representatives and let them know how much their arduous labors are appreciated.

The Johnson-Coughlin debate on economics is very instructive. As we go to press, Johnson is still three dirty cracks ahead.

Only twelve counties in Pennsylvania have jails than ours, according to evaluation ratings made by the bureau of corrections of the Department of Welfare. Yes, we are quite a progressive county, in some respects, but not as far as courthouses and jails are concerned.

Strange how dictators interest themselves in all kinds of philanthropic projects. Work wonders, often to better life, pay so much attention to more and better babies, and then suddenly plunge everyone into war, where nothing counts or matters but to kill or be killed.

A NEW DISEASE
Nurse—A woman came into our hospital the other day who was so cross-eyed that the tears ran down her back.

Boy Friend—You couldn't do anything for her, could you?

Nurse—Certainly, we treated her for bacteria.

And one of the things we like about spring is the smell of the bon-bon smoke. Of course it's made of hot, but it has the tang of the forest, and the wide open spaces. There's a lot of Indian in the most of us, and anything that suggest the freedom of wild life brings it out.

Another marvel of accuracy is the daily newspaper. Sometimes a reader imagines he has made a wonderful discovery when he finds a word spelled incorrectly, or a grammatical error. But have you ever stopped to consider that there is a million or more chances for mistakes in a fair sized newspaper. Think of that the next time you are disposed dilate on your superiority.

ALL TAKEN CARE OF
Mrs. Smith—What rent do you pay?

Mrs. Jones—I don't pay it.

Mrs. Smith—What would it be if you did pay it?

Mrs. Jones—A miracle.

The prisoner sells fish. Hitherto, he bore a good character, declared a witness at a recent trial in Wile-don, England. Kind of fishy business, eh?

A free land is one where a man makes a failure of his own life but knows just how to run the country.

Every cause needs two leaders: a builder to do the work and a bad-name caller to draw the crowd.

There's one consolation. When the Senate gets rowdy and common, you can buy a seat lots cheaper.

It may be true that people are in the humor for a great religious revival. Salvation is free.

Let us be thankful for Wall Street. We need something to blame when we act dumb and lose our shirts.

After we divide the wealth, let's get together and shave the heads of lucky stiffs who still have hair.

JOB WENT UP
"Why did you leave your last job?" asked the boss.

"I didn't have it; it left me," said the applicant.

"How could that be?"

"I worked in an ammunition factory and it went up in the night."

The World At A Glance

Unstable Currency Hurts Trade.
Trade Restrictions Also Costly.
The Wage Question And Inflation.

Central Press

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 30.—It is not a war scare in Europe that has been unsettling world business conditions, but the warfare in currency.

When Belgium recently was forced off the gold standard, to all intents and purposes, the world price structure again suffered a severe shock. The patient may not be able to withstand many more such shocks. Yet, more are coming.

Why? For the reason that as a nation devalues its currency in order to meet world trade competition, other nations follow suit. And, in retaliation tariffs are boosted, until trade is completely stopped. In the end, there is a merry dance of death.

Money becomes worth less and less, because of its devaluation and, in correspondence, prices rise higher and higher. If there is no longer shall meet, until there is a collapse.

BASIS FOR INFLATION
There is every basis for inflation in the United States.

Bank deposits (largely government credits) are greatly swollen. Circulation is expanded. Interest rates are low. Vast federal expenditures are met through borrowings, not actual cash collections. And in every possible manner advocates of the issuance of printing press money are seeking to issue it against "bank credits."

But much of the bank credit is in itself dependent upon a bank debit, and would disappear into thin air were one to try to separate it.

Actual wealth can be produced only through labor development. The money that the government puts into waterpower may create wealth for the people through a slow process. But the expansion of credit and currency distributes nothing. That may create speculation, which is a "pipe dream" of wealth, nothing else.

Trade is the only actual basis of wealth man knows—trade of that which we produce for something else that somebody else produces. As it is, world trade is stifled, and we try to "create" wealth by destroying that which we produce, to raise prices. In the meantime, people starve.

WAGES
Whether wages can be raised to meet inflationary living costs is a question. It, at least, is not a solution.

The moment that wages and salaries and dividends total more than the cost of a product elsewhere, then markets disappear.

A man may receive still lower wages than at present and yet be further ahead, if costs of necessities eat up less than his income.

The danger in currency expansion, or any other form of inflation, lies in the inability of wages to meet rising costs. Thus the poor man becomes poorer. And, besides, the firm which employs he man may find itself forced to suspend because of the inability of people to gain enough money to buy.

IN MEXICO
Mexico is one of the few nations of the world whose current income exceeds expenditures, and which has no charge or restrictions on international trade, we hear from an American chamber of commerce secretary.

SATURDAY, MAR. 30

Today's Yesterdays—Mar. 30, 317 B. C.—Pharos, greatest Athenian general of his time, drank hemlock and died a martyr to his patriotism. Because he was an honest man, the date of his death and his good qualities have been remembered for 22 centuries.

When Alexander the Great had overcome Darius of Persia, he sent Phocian the equivalent of a million dollars of the spoils. Of the messengers who brought him this gift, Phocian asked why Alexander gave him so great a gift rather than to any of the Athenians.

"Because," said they, "he esteems thee only to be a good and honest man."

"Then," said Phocian "let him give me leave to remain that which I seem, and am, so long as I live."

No man was loved more by his own generation, or less by the next. After he had been chosen general of the Athenians 45 times by universal appointment, he was sentenced to death because he counseled peace!

Yet this did not sadden him so much as the profligacy of his son.

Mar. 30, 1842—The first surgical operation under anesthesia, one of the most important milestones in all the history of the human race, was performed beneath a mulberry tree in Jefferson, Ga.

Dr. Crawford Williamson Long, 27, took a chance, gave James M. Venable sulphuric ether by inhalation, made an incision and removed a tumor.

Mar. 30, 1867—Russian American became "Seward's Folly."

The secretary of state, William H. Seward, was to hear and read many a criticism of his action in sponsoring the treaty signed on this date which gave 586,000 square miles of Russian territory—Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, to the U. S. for $7,200,000.

Notable Nativities—Anna Sewell, b. 1830, British cripple and invalid who wrote the famous animal story, "Black Beauty." She received only $100 for it, a fraction of the royalties that should have been hers from the millions of copies published. . . . John Fiske, b. 1842, American historian. . . . Paul Verlaine, b. 1844, French poet. . . . Jo Davidson, b. 1863, American sculptor. . . . Clifford Beers, b. 1876, founder of mental hygiene movement after he had spent a term in an asylum.

SUNDAY
Sunday's Yesterdays—Mar. 31, 1596—Rene Descartes was born in France, destined to become one of the six greatest mathematicians and astronomers. He was sickly from infancy, and spent most of his life in bed. The books that have made him an immortal probably never would have been published if friends had not insisted.

Mar. 31, 1809—Edward Fitzgerald was born in England, destined to be the discoverer who gave the poems of Omar Khayyam to the west. Copies of the first edition of the Rubaiyat are worth a fortune today, yet they brought Fitzgerald virtually nothing.

Mar. 31, 1884—Japan was impressed by the guns of the ships of Commodore Matthew C. Perry, U. S. N., into signing the "open door" treaty which threw open its ports to the world's ships and trade.

But you're wrong! You believe the U. S. was first to gain an entry to Japan. Dutch and Portuguese traders had been there for years.

Mar. 31, 1903—First news was transmitted across the Atlantic by wireless telegraphy. It was a dispatch sent from New York to the London Times, via telegraph to Newfoundland.

Notable Nativities—Franz Joseph Haydn, b. 1732, Austrian composer. . . . Robert W. E. Bunsen, b. 1811, German chemist for whom the Bunsen burner was named. . . . Nicholas Gogol, b. 1809, Russian novelist and dramatist. . . . William Waldorf Astor, b. 1848, American capitalist, who became a British citizen. . . . John Hays Hammond, Sr., b. 1855, celebrated American engineer who inspired Richard Harding Davis' "Soldiers of Fortune." . . . Claude A. Swanson, b. 1862, secretary of navy. . . . James P. Pope, b. 1884, senator from Idaho. . . . William H. Dieterich, b. 1876, senator from Illinois.

You're Wrong If You Believe—That only cow's milk is suitable for butter.

This isn't true. U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry says: "There is no reason to believe that butter could not be made from the milk of any mammal." Commercial butter now is made from water-buffalo and goat milk as well as cow's milk.

That no man has been vice president under two different presidents.

Two men have—George Clinton, under Jefferson and Madison, and John C. Calhoun under J. Q. Adams and Jackson.

The World AND THE

THOSE JAPANESE

Concerning the Japanese—Harry Carr has written a book, following a vacation spent in the Orient—"Riding the Tiger." Carr has made a long study of the Mongolian races and what he says is worthy of thought.

He attended a gorgeous Shinto wedding recently in the Japanese quarter of Los Angeles. Describing it, he says:

"Although the priests were in costumes that date back perhaps thousands of years, what impressed me was the Americanism that had come in. None of my Japanese friends—and I had many there—knew much about the symbolism. The lovely little bride was dressed in a Paris wedding gown. The solemn music of the great drums and sacred flutes was interrupted as the bride and groom came down the aisle by a young lady who played the wedding march on an American piano.

"If people can find some topic of conversation other than war, Japan and the United States are in a fair way to bind themselves to each other by ties that can never be broken."

Further discussing the Japanese, he goes on:

"The ancient culture of the life of California. One of the guests at the wedding was a charming young teacher of the Los Angeles public schools, who is studying floral arrangements under a Japanese teacher."

"To say that one knows the Japanese art of floral arrangement is like saying you know astronomy. It is the study of a lifetime."

"Our idea of arranging flowers and jam them into a pot. The Japanese arrangements are pure symbolism. Every position of every flower means something."

"Out of this exchange of their old cultures for our machinery will come a new understanding. No one could possibly study this and other (Continued on Page Seven)

PENTECOSTAL CLERGYMEN TO MEET MONDAY

Pentecostal Ministers Of Western Part Of State Coming To Local Church

On Court House Hill

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor has mailed out notices to sixty traverse jurors to appear for jury duty at a term of court, beginning on the fourth Monday of April.

More than 200 chicken brands have been registered at the Sheriff's office during the past few weeks. Others are coming in daily. There have been no chicken thefts reported in Lawrence county since the registration of brands was inaugurated.

Occasionally holders of judgment notes against persons who have died appear at the probatory's office to file the notes, only to learn that the notes cannot be filed because the warrant thereon expires with the maker's death. In cases of this kind, the holder of the note should file his claim with the administrator of the estate.

There has been no concerted action on the part of wives here to have their alimony or payment increased in cases where orders have been made by the court since have been evidenced in some other counties. In Fayette county the judges heard forty applications for increases yesterday on the grounds that business is better and that they were entitled to more money. However, in Lawrence county there does not appear to be any increase in employment and some of the men who have been ordered to pay their wives allowances are on relief.

The county commissioners have donated to the county home a quantity of groceries which have been confiscated by County Detective A. S. Leslie in raids of various kinds. The list includes cases of pickles, peaches, tomatoes, tuna fish, carolines, jelly preserves and small quantities of sugar, salt and soap.

Delinquent Tax Collector Edward Umbright has just turned in $9000 to the county treasury, which has enabled the county to get along a little longer without borrowing any more money. The county commissioners have borrowed $30,000 for the general fund and $30,000 for the poor fund and another loan would have had to have been negotiated this week had it not been for the money turned in by Umbright. Borrowings are necessary until the 1935 taxes begin to come in, when the notes will be met.

The New Castle Mutual Building and Loan Association has issued an execution against Henrietta Ford, executrix of the will of the late Jas. A. Davis, Henrietta Ford, a legatee, and W. B. and Mary Kinney, terre tenants. Mr. Davis, a former resident, who died in Warren, O., had secured a loan on property in the fourth ward, on which there is a balance due of $528.09. It is claimed that the payments have not been kept up according to the terms of the mortgage.

Attorney W. W. Stevenson, secretary of the local branch of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, reports that on loans granted farmers after April 1st, the interest will be 4 1/2 per cent, which is an increase for the present rate. There will be no change in the five percent rate on money obtained from the land bank commissioner. There are now some thing over two hundred land bank loans in Lawrence county and about seventy five to the land bank commissioner. Farmers of the county have generally been prompt in meeting their payments.

Stefan Gogesch, of Campbell, O., has filed a suit at the prothono-tary's office here against Joseph and Rosie Span of Pulaski township and Matt Gogesch, of Campbell, O. to collect on a note for $400. The note, which is for $400, was given in Ohio, on March 25th, 1927 and bears seven per cent interest. It is claimed that on February 25th, 1935, there was a balance of $440 due on the note.

Aiderman L. C. Mantz has caught the spring house-cleaning fever and is having his office cleaned, varnished and re-decorated. Constable R. B. Morrow is supervising the cleaning operations and Clarence Smith is doing the painting and decorating.

The Mothers Assistance Board, investigating for old age pensions has found it impossible to secure copies of birth certificates of some of the persons who apply for pensions, for the reason that it was not the custom to keep records of births seventy years ago or more. However, inability of the investigators to secure birth certificates does not prove a bar to the granting of a pension. The law merely says that the board is to be satisfied that the applicant has reached the required age. Proofs of various kinds can be substituted for birth certificates. Under the present system of registration the birth of every child in the commonwealth is registered in the bureau of Vital Statistics at Harrisburg.

SAFETY RULES
Where there are small children in the home it is particularly important that doors leading to stairs, cupboard doors that prove bumpers for small heads, and doors to medicine cabinets and cupboards containing things liable to be injurious, be closed after each opening. Get the habit of closing doors and drawers; it is easily cultivated and, incidentally, means a neater house.

Eleventh Hour Reprieve Saves Cuban Prisoner

Was Scheduled To Face Firing Squad At 6 O'clock, But Gets Life Term Instead

(International News Service) HAVANA, Mar. 30. — With his execution set for 6 o'clock, Manuel Fonseca woke from his restless slumber this morning at 5 and watched the hands of a clock move all too fast toward the time set for him to die for possession of a bomb during the recent revolutionary strike.

Fonseca knew that the government, under heated public pressure, had passed a retroactive law changing the penalty for having explosives from death to life imprisonment. But he also was aware that Lieut.-Col. Gonzales Pedrosa, chief of the Fifth Military District and virtual commander of Havana under martial law, had decreed that Fonseca would be shot anyway.

Just In Time Terrified, the condemned man saw the hands move to half-past, to 5:45, to ten minutes before he must die.

There was a stamp of marching feet outside his prison, gun stocks pounded on the ground, and the cell door opened — the firing squad, thought Fonseca, coming to get him.

But it was Lieut.-Col. Pedrosa himself, bringing word that Fonseca's sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment — at ten minutes to six, word that came with only minutes to spare.

The Chinese are a people with delicately attuned ears and easily pick languages on the fly. They grasp our peculiar humor quicker than the Japanese because they learned that part first.

Bridge Tourney Off Till Monday

Culbertsons Bid And Make Grand Slam Vulnerable On Last Hand Of Old Rules

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Mar. 30.—Ely Culbertson and his wife bade (past tense of bid) farewell to the old contract bridge scoring system with a magnificent flourish.

In the very last hand to be played under the old bridge rules against H. Hal Sims and Mrs. Sims the Culbertsons bid and made a grand slam in spades. They registered 2250 points bonus for the slam under the new bridge rules which go into effect next Monday, they would only have scored 1500 points.

Very Lucky Break
"I consider it the luckiest break in my entire career," today declared Culbertson.

"I congratulate you on not claiming it was superior bridge," remarked Sims.

The end of the first week's play in the matrimonial bridge match between the Simses and the Culbertsons showed the latter tandem leading by 9380 points. Thirty nine of the scheduled 150 rubbers have been played.

Aces, kings and queens held by the opposing team totaled as follows:

	Culbertsons	Simses
Aces	512	518
Kings	486	544
Queens	133	133

The Simses, slipping deeper into the red on the score sheet, had to be content in the last session with doubling a one heart bid by Mrs. Culbertson and setting their opponents four tricks or 700 points. Mrs. Sims, the doubler, also held honors in hearts, scoring an additional 100 points.

With no session of bridge scheduled until next Monday when they resume play under the new rules, the Culbertsons left for their country home at Ridgefield, Conn., to spend the week end with their two children.

The Simses went to Red Bank, N. J.

80,000,000 Good Dollars.
Now, We Are Paying.
The Schwab Worm Turns.
Hanging? No. Chopping?
Yes.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ONE GOOD piece of news. Next Monday, the railroad workers, as fine, loyal and faithful a body of workers as are any in the world, will have restored their pay level of 1931. This means an increase of eighty million dollars in railroad payrolls. No dollars could act more effectively or quickly to relieve depression. Each of the $80,000,000 will be spent as soon as it is received, and it will be spent by men that have earned it, for families that need it.

SIX YEARS ago the depression started, a half year before anybody knew it. New York's Gov. Lehman asks for fifty-five million dollars more for the unemployed.

New York City spends more than two hundred million dollars a year for relief. The national government has just given the President, on top of the other billions, four thousand eight hundred and eighty million dollars to kill the depression, which refuses to die.

Often, after the big war ended, this column has, vainly, advised workers to save money, telling them:

"Some day this country must pay for its foolish share in the big war; you will help pay and it will not be pleasant."
Workers, and the rest of the country are paying now.

YOU KNOW perfectly well, because "Doc" Wood, city editor for Charles A. Dana, long, long ago said it, that "when a dog bites a man, that is not news, but if a man bit a dog that would be news."

Charles M. Schwab, arriving from parts across the ocean, turns pessimist, a "bear on business," says the United States appears to have "gone back."

THAT is news. Mr. Schwab usually sees about ten rainbows and ten thousand million quadrillion dollars of profit ahead.

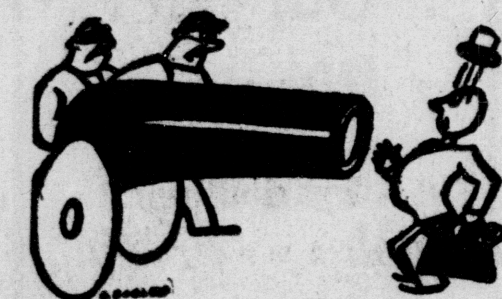

THAT THE great optimist should turn, saying: "We don't seem to be progressing, we seem to have gone back," need not discourage you.

Charles M. Schwab is 73 years old and he will permit somebody, not much younger, to suggest, that a man of seventy-three often becomes discouraged just as young men of forty-three or fifty-three are about to put everything right. Age believes bad news, youth believes only good news.

CHANCELLOR HITLER learns with horror that four Nazis convicted of spying and plotting to separate Memel from Lithuania are sentenced to be hanged, and eighty-three other Germans sentenced to prison.

At a distance, it seems that hanging four men convicted of betraying the government is no worse than chopping off the heads of two women convicted of spying.

Memel, across the Memel River, separating Prussia and Memel, will perhaps be the cause of the next big or little war. It can hardly be "little." Memel was given to Lithuania after Germany's defeat. German (Continued On Page Thirteen)

Five Of Eight Amateur Boxing Crowns Go To Pittsburgh Boxers

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 30.—Five of the eight crowns in the Senior A. M. A. championship tournament were in the hands of the Pittsburgh boys today with the General Electric A. C. of Erie, the Superior A. C. of Brownsville, and Pittsburgh Lyceum each grabbing one.

In the 112 pound class, Minnie Demore of Pittsburgh, defeated Tuffy Reinhardt of Erie, in the 118, Joe Sulk, Pittsburgh, beat Buster Lotter of McKeesport. In the 126, Billy Miller, Pittsburgh, won from Emil Josephs, clubmate. In the 135, Leo Sweeney, Pittsburgh, defeated Snooky Rabbit, Erie. In the 147, Ossie Harris, Superior, beat Charlie Pickard, Pleasant Valley A. C. In the 160, Lefty Siskowski, Erie, won from John Henry Thomas, Brownsville. In the 175, Lou Berg, Pittsburgh, was winner over George Douglas, of Meadville.

THE SPORT PATROL

By JOHN J. MAHER, JR.
THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS
It didn't take Connie Mack long once he got down to the serious business of deciding what players were to be retained and which ones needed more seasoning. While the problem of getting the roster within the 23-player limit is usually one to have the clubs undecided until the deadline of May 15, the veteran Athletic manager already has his squad of 23 men selected.

There are only four men on the team who have had no previous experience with Philadelphia. Pitcher Ducky Leiber, First Baseman Alex Hooks, Shortstop Lamar Newsome and Outfielder Wally Moses are the minor leaguers that have successfully passed the conditioning tests at Fort Myers, Fla.

Nine pitchers are on the squad but just who the five starters will be is unknown. Johnny Marcum, Bill Dietrich, Sugar Cain, Joe Cascarella and Al Benton are as likely as any to get the posts, although LeRoy Mahaffey, Dutch Leiber, George Caster and Whitely Wilshire all have excellent prospects of breaking into the front firing line.

There seems to be very little to choose between any of the entire group of nine. With the exception of Mahaffey they are all comparatively young hurlers who may develop into stars or fade like morning glories. The most likely result, however, is that Mack will find a quintet from the group that will be a good although not outstanding staff.

The catching department, though definitely set, is causing more comment than any other position on the team. Mack plans to have Jimmy Fox do most of the receiving, but Jimmy is one of the game's real stars and his shift from first base has resulted in two questions being frequently asked for which there will be no answers until after the season is well under way. Will the batting of Fox drop off due to the heavy work behind the bat and will Jimmy fall a prey to the injury bug that pursues all catchers?

In addition to Fox, Charley Berry and Moss, a rookie, will be on hand for catching duties. In case Fox should become unavailable they would be better than no catchers at all but that's about the limit of their usefulness.

Alex Hooks is scheduled to take over first base. In fact, the job was handed to him on a silver platter since no one is in camp to compete with him. Despite Hooks' fine Texas league batting average, there is some doubt as to his ability to hit.

Should he fail Mack's plans would be upset completely. He would be forced to return Fox to first and operate without a good catcher, or else keep Jimmy behind the bat and be minus a major league first baseman.

Dib Williams gets the call over Rabbit Warbler at second due to his superior hitting. Erie's Mohr, though only 25 years old, is already an established veteran at shortstop. Pinky Higgins, although he isn't generally credited as such, is one of the best third basemen now playing. Lamar Newsome and Warbler, utility infielders, are flashy on the defense but both are weak batters.

The five outfielders on the roster are Bob Johnson, Phil Cramer, Ed Coleman, Wally Moses and Lou Finney. Johnson and Cramer are established in two of the positions while Finney and Coleman will battle for the right field job with the former probably winning the berth. Moses, a 24-year-old Georgian, will be Connie's pinch-batter No. 1.

The team shows promise, lots of it, but this season the Philadelphia "promise" will probably be nestled in sixth place learning some of the finer points from the veteran teams like Boston, New York, etc. The team, all 23 players included averages no more than 26 years of age. That's quite a youthful roster, especially in comparison with the experience these same players have already gained.

Senior B Girls Are Champions Of High Class Loop

Senior B girls basketball team won the Senior high girls class league championship yesterday afternoon by defeating the Junior A class team, 19 to 7. The Senior B girls won seven games and only lost one this year, for an enviable record. The team was coached by Betty Lou Hartland and Irma Swanson.

Following the victorious game the Girls Physical Director, Miss Sara McGowan, awarded basketball letters to the championship girls. The following composed the Senior B squad this year: Lily Smith, captain and forward; Verna Hietisch, forward; Freda Voderdorfer, forward; Dot Atkins, center; Thelma Reed and Marion Ramsey, side centers; Anna Chill, Gwendolyn Frew and Ella Milton, guards.

Detroit Recounts Sport Fame Of "Linc" Love

Out of a banquet given in the Detroit Yacht club recently has come a series of sport features in the Detroit Times headed "Sport Stars of Yesterday" written by Bob Murphy. One of the first old time stars to be honored is Robert "Linc" Love, former New Castleite who was a figure in big league baseball for years.

The banquet referred to had a number of famous athletes present. Among them were Fielding H. "Hurry Up" Yost, who brought the University of Michigan to a proud place in the athletic world, Frankie Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, Dixie Howell, the star from Alabama who shone so brilliantly in the Tournament of Roses game in January, Pug Lund, former All-American back from the University of Minnesota, Linc Love and others.

Detailed Accounts
The article concerning Linc Love is a detailed one and goes back into his early history. Heading the article is the quotation from Longfellow "and departing leave behind us footprints on the sands of time." "There is no better way to start the story of Robert L. Love," says Murphy. "He left behind everlasting footprints on baseballs sands of time." He then goes on to call Love, one of the glamorous figures of the "Gay Nineties" and certainly one of the greatest infielders of all time. Love has lived in Detroit, Mich., for many years.

Love entered professional ball with the Eau Claire, Wisconsin club of the Western League in 1887. In 1888-89 he played with Milwaukee and went to Boston in the spring of 1890. The Boston infield of Tenney, Lowe, Long and Collins has been classed as "the greatest infield of all times, exceeding the Tinkers-

Ever-Chance combination, which combination was built by Lowe when he went to Chicago as captain in 1902.

Then To Detroit

Johnny Evers was just a youngster at that time and he beat Lowe out for the second base job. Detroit signed him and he played with that team through 1907 the year Detroit won a pennant.

He managed Grand Rapids in 1908 and scouted for the Tigers from 1909 to 1914. As an active player Lowe set a record that has never been surpassed, that of hitting four home runs in one game. It has been equaled only twice, once by Ed Delahunty and once by Lou Gehrig.

Lowe was one of the brightest stars in the baseball constellation. In addition to his ability on the diamond he was a credit to the game off the field. For a number of years he still retained an interest in New Castle, owning considerable property here. New Castle has always been proud of Linc Love and the nice things said about him by Bob Murphy in the Detroit Times find an echo here.

"Y" DEVIL DOGS AND CASTLETONS BATTLE TONIGHT

"Y" Devil Dogs and Castletons will battle tonight at the "Y" floor in the second game of the House-Indus league series for the championship. The Devil Dogs won the first game of the series and intend to end the series tonight if possible. The Castletons will be fighting hard tonight to even up the count. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Unions Set For Soft Ball Year

Unions will have a strong soft ball team in the field this year and will be after the Radcliffs scalp. Managers Joe Diana and John Fair will present a Union team that will have many stars of the former Unions and Scarazzos in the lineup.

New uniforms have been bought for the Unions and they will present a snappy appearance, according to Jack Kenny of the Union Brewery who is backing the team.

Nineteen players have been signed up with Frank Babs, Rodger Pezzone, Harold Dickson and Al Ritchie doing the pitching. Texie Richards will go back of the plate. Dom Scarnati will be at short, with either Tom Fair, Joe Bosco, or Frank Merando at first base, with Summers at second and Ted Turco at third base. Joe Nigro will be a sub infielder.

The outfield will consist of Frank Vigali, Francis Clause, Frank Picarri, Sam Cople, Al Pezzone, Joe Merando and Joe Fair as roving short.

Bandits Hi-Jack Supply Of Leather

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Mar. 30.—Four armed bandits hi-jacked a $10,000 truckload of leather in nearby Topsfield today and drove off with the truck after kidnapping the driver, Kenneth Ellison. The driver was later released after the men had coolly driven the truck through greater Boston.

The way to get the best of an argument is not to take part in it.

Geneva Players Select Bennett

Birch And Serany Of Duquesne, Howell Of George Washington Also Named

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Mar. 30.—Although the 1935 Geneva College basketball schedule carried the team into competition with most of the better teams in the eastern district, the members of the varsity squad saw fit to place only one player from outside the tri-state district on their honorary all-opponents quintet, which they selected early this week.

Two of the players selected on this mythical five were given the unanimous vote of the Geneva players. Birch of Duquesne, also chosen as the best player to face the Covenanters this season, found a place at the forward position on every ballot, as did Bennett, star Westminster center and outstanding point scorer in the country this year.

The other forward post was given to Howell, stocky George Washington University performer. Howell scored more points against the Gold and White this year than any other individual opponent. His scores of 22 and 15 points in the two Geneva-George Washington contests, for a total of 37 points, placed him well out in front.

Rigg, dependable Carnegie Tech guard, missed unanimous choice by a single vote. Paired with Rigg at the guard spot is Serany of the Duquesne aggregation.

The Geneva All-Opponent Team:
Forward, Birch, Duquesne University.
Forward, Howell, George Washington University.
Center, Bennett, Westminster College.

Guard, Rigg, Carnegie Tech.
Guard, Serany, Duquesne University.

Honorable Mention:
Forward, Bender and Cramer, both of Long Island University.
Guards, Goldfaden, George Washington University; Miller, Duquesne University.

Church Golfers Dine Next Week

Golf League Banquet Set For First Presbyterian Church Thursday Evening

New Castle Church league golfers will dine next Thursday night at the First Presbyterian church. Upwards of 100 members of the golf league and others who are interested will attend the dinner. The time of the dinner is 6:30 o'clock.

There will be possibly ten teams in the church league this summer. The Mahoningtown churches have combined to put a team into the league, with C. H. Clark being in charge of the team, while Clare Roberts has undertaken to organize an East Side church team using Epworth, Second U. P. and Third U. P. members. Both of these new teams are asked to send as many as possible to the dinner next Thursday night.

Sam Lewis chairman of the program committee has arranged a fine lot of entertainment for the evening and the church league golfers seem headed for another joyous session such as they had at Castle Hills last fall. The dinner will be served by the McKinney Bible class of the First Presbyterian church. All of the churches having teams in the league are asked to send as many as possible to the dinner.

Kiwanians To Enjoy Play On Wednesday

"Breakfast" will be the title of a one-act play which a cast from the Senior high school's dramatic class will present before the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon on Wednesday, April 3. The program is being sponsored by the club's Junior Kiwanians.

Chief Engineer R. P. Forsberg of the P. & L. E. railroad, it is announced, will address the club on April 10. At Sewickley on April 26 the spring conference for the Central Western Pennsylvania division clubs will be held.

Hebrew University Marks Anniversary

City's Jewry Joins In Spirit For Celebration Of Palestine School

Although thousands of miles distant from the scene of festivities, New Castle district friends of the Hebrew university in Palestine will be sharing in spirit on Tuesday, April 2, the 10th anniversary celebration of the dedication of the university.

Leaders in science and education throughout the world, Rabbi Avery Jonah Grossfield of Temple Israel said today, will join in the celebration abroad.

In America a chain of dinners and meetings will be held from coast to coast and the voices of Sir Herbert Samuel, James de Rothschild, of Greenfield, and Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor of the university, will be heard in an international broadcast from London and Jerusalem on Tuesday night.

"In the past ten years, particularly notable work has been done at the university in combating disease in the Near East through research work in malaria and the recent opening of the Cancer Institute," Rabbi Grossfield pointed out.

The development of an agricultural college and the establishment of a meteorological station and a three-year program for the acquisition of renowned scholars formerly attached to the German universities is now in progress or will be shortly.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. March 29, seven arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness and disorderly conduct 2, violation of parking law 3 and suspicion 1.

Engineers of the city will be pleased to know that Thomas C. Moore, superintendent of the New Castle Street Electric railway, plans to have some improvements made here soon. He reported yesterday that recently some rough spots were improved in the northern part of Highland avenue and the cross-over at the P. R. R. Mahoning avenue, is to be repaired. Tarva will also be placed in some sections of the east side route roadbed, he added.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne explained to a person, charged with drunkenness and who is said to have possessed untaxed liquor yesterday that were he so disposed he could turn the defendant over to federal authorities. The mayor said that under existing laws a person could be fined $500.

Apparently members of the police department are on their toes, judging from events which happened night before last. Patrolman U. G. Harper was at the public square when a man walked in front of a car and was injured. Patrolman Flegler's eyes determined that a building has become unsafe. Patrolman Nelson was right on the scene when trouble occurred on the east side.

Indications are that quite a crowd will be present in council chambers, city hall, when the proposed govt. bill is considered in committee Monday. Some persons favor the elimination of an alleged goat farm on the east side and it is said that the others who wish to keep a goat or more will be present to argue their case.

So far no announcement relative to gardens at the disposal plant have been made by city officials this spring. Usually there are scores of gardens and splendid crops are grown. City officials accompanied a delegation of steel workers to Pittsburgh yesterday. Police court fans are becoming more numerous daily.

THE PINK SLIP IS TORN UP

IT WAS in the senate, fostered by a little demagogic clique, that the Pink Slip had its origin. Now, finally, it is in the senate that the Pink Slip is scrapped, with the vote abrogating the publicity provision of the revenue act.

That clause would have required the taxpayers of the nation to make their total earnings for last year, neatly recapitulated on the Pink Slips, a matter of public display. Because the clause was still in effect on the March 15 deadline for returns, the Slips are already in possession of the internal revenue collector, but the senate's repeal effectively withholds them from the snoopers.

The senate has done the only fair and just thing in repealing this provision—and it has done it, incidentally, in response to a public demand that was nation-wide and indignantly insistent.

LOVE FEAST FOR CENSOR

Censors are not usually popular with newspaper correspondents, who hate to see their despatches mangled. But there are censors and censors. Mr. Podolsky of Moscow is one of the exceptions. Thirty-five correspondents of foreign journals, now in that city, have given a dinner in his honor. They praised his courtesy and tact, saying that he never wilfully mutilated anything they wrote.

He could understand their point of view even when he did not sympathize with it. He kept his good humor even when arguments arose. Of course they do not believe in censorship as an institution. Nevertheless, they like Mr. Podolsky, and got together to tell him so. An event like this is worth noting.

UNIFORM LAWS AND POLICE CO-OPERATION

President Roosevelt urges state legislatures to adopt a uniform state narcotic law to aid the campaign against the dope evil. If there were more uniformity in many of the other laws enacted by the various states the measures would be more effective. There would not be so much of the jumping over borders to escape penalties imposed in some states, but not inflicted in others. States could co-operate much more than they do, without losing their cherished states' rights.

One form of co-operation which appears to be gaining ground is that relating to the extinction of gangsters. Donald C. Stone, director of the consulting division of public administration of the International Association of Police Chiefs, recently said that within five years desperadoes will be as extinct as the dodo. This is to be brought about by national co-operation of all police departments, he declares. This national police army is now being organized behind the scenes. There will be no regrets when the gangster is ranked as an extinct species of a once flourishing family.

ROOSEVELT PREVAILS

The die is definitely cast for the spending of $4,880,000,000 by the nation on work relief. President Roosevelt's real determination that the dole, as such, shall be abandoned has prevailed. That is the high water mark at this session of presidential control of the congress, since the executive has a fairly free hand and he gets the last nickel of the amount he sought. The resolution cannot be amended in that respect in conference.

It is confidently asserted that the house conferees will succeed in lopping off the Thomas billion-dollar silver expansion rider. But since the house was in such an inflationist mood in passing the Patman bill, it would not be inconsistent for it to accept the amendment. The one reason it would not do so might be to avoid a veto on the relief bill.

Undoubtedly the long delayed passage of the relief bill in the senate without the prevailing wage feature to which the president objected will hearten Mr. Roosevelt to press for his whole eight-point program. That may mean congress will swelter away well into the summer on a social program that has for a large part of its purpose legislating morals for business.

Continuance of congress in protracted session invariably makes for business restlessness and uncertainty. Reform of one kind or another unquestionably has its place in the legislative scheme of things. These, however, are times of emergency and emergency measures only should have the call.

There were 45,351,707 packs of playing cards sold in 1934. It's gratifying to learn that at least one of the great needs of our times has been met.

If preparedness for war is the best guarantee of peace, as has been reiterated so often of late, the world should rejoice that Germany has joined the peace ranks.

So far as we know, history records no instance of unraveling the nation's problems by spellbinders, and we doubt if any precedents will be established in the present crisis.

Over five thousand Americans competed in the recent contest for the biggest liar in the United States, which is just a suggestion of our natural resources in this particular field.

Judge Lindsay says our grandfathers were happier than we are, and, judging by the heritage of debt we're going to leave behind, we're happier than our grandchildren are going to be.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A little girl told me that when you ask your father and mother for something and they say in a certain tone of voice, "Well, we'll see," that usually means you're not going to get it.

Nothing makes you feel so rich as a pocketful of small change—even if that's all you have.

I'm sorry that I never had a nickname. But my stick-out ears always attracted quite a bit of attention.

I suppose one does grow up eventually. . . . Old enough so that you can see the telegraph messenger come up the front walk and not wonder if it's bad news.

The fairest time of day is just after sunset, when earth is so lovely with its dark greens and blues and purples and all is misty-strange and you feel as if you could write a poem. Sunrises have also been praised, and quite properly, I suppose. But my experience of sunrises was mostly during the war, after nights that were dark and unfriendly, and those sunrises had more relief than charm about them.

When I was ten I longed for the day when I might chew tobacco and spit it far and with precision. . . . But when I tried it, I changed my mind. . . . My brother had more will power.

I'm the husband in the comic strips . . . who can't smoke without getting ashes all over the house.

Some day I intend to buy one of those suits with two pairs of pants. . . . I've been "iniding" for 20 years.

I used to think that one learned from experience, and the more experience the better. . . . I still think the more experience the better, but I'm beginning to doubt our ability to learn from it.

DON'T LET PERSONAL PREJUDICES INTERFERE WITH WORTHY CAUSES
Many generous people in the world are willing and even glad to help any cause that needs assistance.

Certain others who really could and should work have peculiar quirks to their makeups. They favor certain friends and projects; when these matters arise, they are always in the van.

But they stand just as strongly against other people, regardless of the justice of the cause, and they oppose all measures that do not suit their tastes.

Why are they so prejudiced in any one direction? These people have been known to remark: "I'd be glad to help in this undertaking, but it would help a person I do not like. Therefore, why should I benefit that person?" Truly, a mean and narrow attitude!

If you are this sort of person, shake yourself before you become warped permanently.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE NEEDED LITTLE
A little more of giving and little less of taking;

A little more of sensing what our neighbors have to bear;

A little more of pity for the ones to sorrow wailing

And we'd have more of laughter and less of bleak despair.

A little more of friendship and a little less of snoring;

A little more of trusting and a little less of doubt;

A little more of cheering and a little less of jeering

And we'd have more contentment and much less to fret about.

A little more of sharing and a little less of grasping;

A little more of loving and a little less of hating.

A little less of bickering and voices harshly rasping

And we should all be stronger when the need for strength is great.

A little more of charity and less of selfish dealing;

A little more of willingness another's need to see;

A little more of wisdom, both of knowing and of feeling

And life would be the joyous thing it really ought to be.

Bible Thought For Today

Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth evil hath not seen God.—John 3:11.

Sun sets tonight 6:22. Sun rises tomorrow 5:46.

Despite the fact that April Fool's Day comes on its first day, the birthstone for the month of April is the sapphire, which is credited with endowing one with wisdom. But then of course, everyone doesn't make a fool of himself on April 1.

Demagogues are those who pile up abominations which it seems impossible anyone could have committed.

A regular Zeppelin service is soon to be inaugurated between Holland and the Dutch East Indies, and here we can't take our Zeppelins out of the hangar without them going to pieces. Looks like there might be something rotten in Denmark or Amsterdam.

The Girl Next Door says that flirting is a sign of unselfishness.

The measure of a man is the size of the offense that gives him a life-long grudge.

Down in Texas, a man fasted for sixty-two days in order to beat the record of a man who had fasted for sixty days in a book. The shock of food was so great when he tried to eat that he died. And even had he lived, the record would have been a rather empty one, we imagine.

In the good old days, a divorce meant a fight to see who'd get the children, but now it's to see who'll get the car or the pet Pekinese.

Sewing on buttons will never be popular with the women folks until it can be done with some kind of automatic machinery.

Few successful men are batchelors. A rabbit doesn't run unless there is something behind it.

Brent's groundhog was only about seven weeks late in coming out to view his shadow. This just goes to prove that the groundhog cannot be taken as a very reliable fore-caster.

Charlie Schwab is against taking the profits out of war. Maybe if the boys, who do the fighting for nothing much more than the thrill, would do the same, there wouldn't be any wars to make any profits out of.

A New York man, aged 84 years, has recently completed the making of an entire gross of solid silver tea spoons, which can be packed in an ordinary cherry shell. They can be seen only through a magnifying glass, and a special tube is required to place them in the store. They would probably be of considerable use in feeding an amoeba.

So long as the voice of the people cries "Gimmie!" the most popular leader will be the best gimmie.

You can tell the healthy ones. They regard "nerves" as a mixture of self-pity and imagination.

If you are tempted to do violence, watch your step. All cruelty in man's history was promoted by ignorance.

It isn't enough to think you are right. All tragic blunders are made by men who think they are being smart.

Being a husband we feel it our duty at this season of the year to warn our fellow sufferers against making disparaging remarks about house-cleaning. We have never known a man who could see any sense in housecleaning. We never knew a man who wouldn't rather be in jail while it is on. But men are dumb, mighty dumb, when it comes to keeping house. The average man doesn't know dirt, unless he's mired in it, or trips over it. So why expect him to be joyful while the house is being turned inside out. If ever a woman is justified in socking her husband with a rolling pin, it's when he begins to yap about house-cleaning.

HE'D PUNISH THEM
A drunk was swaying back and forth on the sidewalk when the cop stepped up and asked him what he was doing and where he lived.

"Right there," he said, pointing to a house, "but I rang the bell and nobody answered."

"How long ago was that?" asked the cop.

"Oh, a couple of hours."

"Well, why don't you try again?"

"Aw, to h— with 'em! 'em wait."

The trouble with most companies is too many by laws, and with most marriages, too many inlaws.

A wife may be read like a book, but she can't be shut up like one.

Germany is now complaining that the atmosphere is being politically poisoned against them. They also thought that "God was with them" in the World War, but it seemed to have turned out the other way. Next they will be claiming that they were attacked in the World War and fought only to defend themselves.

Housewife, to cook—Nora, I don't like to mention it, but it seems to me that the food in the kitchen disappears very rapidly.

Cook—Well, mum, I admit I have a hearty appetite, but no one has ever accused me of being gorgeous.

MATTER OF HONOR
A recent convert in a colored church was very anxious to prove his piety and he went to the preacher and told him so. The preacher then asked: "What do you want to do?"

The convert replied: "Ah is ready to do anything he Lord asks of me so long as it's honorable."

NATURAL MISTAKE
Betty—What heavenly jazz! Let's dance!

Bill—That wasn't jazz. The waiter just dropped our dinner.

THE CAD AT EVE
Husband—If a man steals, no matter what, he will live to regret it.

Wife (copy)—You used to steal kisses from me before we were married.

Husband—Well, you heard what I said.

Yet the naked savage is as rich as the millionaire. He has everything he wants.

Better not condemn the other man's ideas unless you have done something to prove yourself smarter than he is.

KNEW FROM EXPERIENCE
A general and a colonel were walking down the street. They met many privates, and each time the colonel would salute he would mutter, "The same to you."

The general's curiosity soon got the better of him, and he asked: "Why do you always say that?"

The colonel answered: "I was a private and I know what they are thinking."

"I heard you barely escaped from that fire last night."

"That is not strictly true. I had my pajamas on."

The touchy man almost always dictates to others how they ought to behave towards him.

Correct this sentence: "I hate every word he says," cried the typical American, "but I'll fight to defend his right to say it."

Speaking of speed records Pennsylvania can "point with pride" to the general assembly. Out of 2,280 bills introduced, it has actually passed nine that have become laws. This is an enviable record and one that will certainly compare itself to the taxpayers who are footing the bills. If there are any taxpayers left who can raise the price of a three cent stamp we'd suggest that they write their representatives and let them know how much their arduous labors are appreciated.

The Johnson-Coughlin debate on economics is very instructive. As we go to press, Johnson is still three dirty cracks ahead.

Only twelve counties in Pennsylvania have worst jails than ours, according to evaluation ratings made by the bureau of corrections of the Department of Welfare. Yes, we are quite a progressive county, in some respects, but not as far as courthouses and jails are concerned.

Strange how dictators interest themselves in all kinds of philanthropic projects, work wonders, often to better life, pay so much attention to more and better babies, and then suddenly plunge everyone into war, where nothing counts or matters but to kill or be killed.

Phocian the equivalent of a million dollars of the spoils. Of the messengers who brought him this gift, Phocian asked why Alexander gave him so great a gift, rather than to any of the Athenians.

"Because," said they, "he esteems thee only to be a good and honest man."

"Then," said Phocian "let him give me leave to remain that which I seem, and am, so long as I live."

No man was loved more by his own generation, or less by the next. After he had been chosen general of the Athenians 45 times by universal acclamation, he was sentenced to death because he counseled peace!

Yet this did not sadden him so much as the profligacy of his son.

A NEW DISEASE
Nurse—A woman came into our hospital the other day who was so cross-eyed that the tears ran down her back.

Boy Friend—You couldn't do anything for her, could you?

Nurse—Certainly; we treated her for bacteria.

And one of the things we like about spring is the smell of the bon-fire smoke. Of course it's made by burning up rubbish lying about the lot, but it has the tang of the forest and the wide open spaces.

There's a lot of Indian in the most of us, and anything that suggest the freedom of wild life brings it out.

Another marvel of accuracy is the daily newspaper. Sometimes a reader imagines he has made a wonderful discovery when he finds a word spelled incorrectly, or a grammatical error. But have you ever stopped to consider that there is a million or more chances for mistakes in a fair sized newspaper. Think of that the next time you are disposed dilate on your superiority.

ALL TAKEN CARE OF
Mrs. Smith—What rent do you pay?

Mrs. Jones—I don't pay it.

Mrs. Smith—What would it be if you did pay it?

Mrs. Jones—A miracle.

"The prisoner sells fish. Hitherto, he bore a good character, declared a witness at a recent trial in Wilemsen, England. Kind of fishy business, eh?"

A free land is one where a man makes a failure of his own life but knows just how to run the country.

Every cause needs two leaders: a builder to do the work and a bad-name caller to draw the crowd.

There's one consolation. When the Senate gets rowdy and common, you can buy a seat lots cheaper.

It may be true that people are in the humor for a great religious revival. Salvation is free.

Let us be thankful for Wall Street. We need something to blame when we act dumb and lose our shirts.

After we divide the wealth, let's get together and shave the heads of lucky stiff who still have hair.

JOB WENT UP
"Why did you leave your last job?" asked the boss.

"I didn't have it; it left me," said the applicant.

"How could that be?"

"I worked in an ammunition factory and it went up in the night."

The World At A Glance

Unstable Currency Hurts Trade.
Trade Restrictions Also Costly.
The Wage Question And Inflation.Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th Street.By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 30.—It is not a war scare in Europe that has been unsettling world business conditions, but the warfare in currency.

When Belgium recently was forced off the gold standard, to all intents and purposes, the world price structure again suffered a severe shock. The patient may not be able to withstand many more such shocks. Yet, more are coming.

Why? For the reason that as a nation devalues its currency in order to meet world trade competition, other nations follow suit. And, in retaliation tariffs are boosted, until trade is completely stopped. In the end, there is a merry dance of death.

Money becomes worth less and less, because of its devaluation—and, in correspondence, prices rise higher and higher, till the twain no longer shall meet, until there is a collapse.

BASIS FOR INFLATION

There is every basis for inflation in the United States.

Bank deposits (largely government credits) are greatly swollen. Circulation is expanded. Interest rates are low. Vast federal expenditures are met through borrowings, not actual cash collections. And in every possible manner advocates of the issuance of printing press money are seeking to issue it against "bank credits."

But much of the bank credit is in itself dependent upon a bank debit, and would disappear into thin air were one to try to separate it.

Actual cash can be produced only through labor development. The money that the government puts into waterpower may create wealth for the people through a slow process. But the expansion of credit and currency distributes nothing. That may create speculation, which is a "pipe dream" of wealth, nothing else.

Trade is the only actual basis of wealth man knows—trade of that which we produce for something else that somebody else produces. As it is, world trade is stifled, and we try to "create" wealth by destroying that which we produce, to raise prices. In the meantime, people starve.

WAGES

Whether wages can be raised to meet inflationary living costs is a question. It, at least, is not a solution.

The moment that wages and salaries and dividends total more than the cost of a product elsewhere, then markets disappear.
